2010 WAS A GREAT YEAR!!!!!!

- 1. Graduation is Wednesday at 6:00 P.M. Our friends from the PC Pal Intel program (the students earn money through this program by emailing Intel employees; as a result, the company donates money to the school every year) will be here that night. They are looking forward to not only seeing the students, but their parents as well. Remember – this is a potluck.
- 2. Friday, June 4th is a minimum day, so the kids will be dismissed right after lunch at 12:15.
- 3. In case you haven't heard, Susan Spencer, our Administrator, is retiring this summer. She has been a dedicated educator for several years, and we have certainly benefited from her expertise. We all appreciate the support and guidance she has shown our school. Good luck, Mrs. Spencer, and thanks again for everything.
- 4. Final Reading Challenge Update – The students really stepped up to the reading challenge this year. The goal was for each upper grader to read 30 books. Every student dedicated more time than ever to reading and read many more books in one school year than ever before. The total was 324 books, not including the countless books our youngest students read. Erik read the most - 65! Wow! And guess what, we realized we like reading!

To celebrate, Thursday we'll have a mini Read-A-Thon, along with a final homework party.

Each student will be given the free book they chose earlier from Scholastic, for one more reading session.

- 5. The yearbooks will be passed out to the kids on Thursday. Kendra Ussery did a fantastic job preparing them again this year. The Student Council voted to pay for one yearbook per student, so unless you want extras, there won't be any yearbook expenses for the families. Thank you, Kendra!!!!
- 6. Finally, many thanks go to everyone for your involvement with the school this year. They say time flies when you're having fun, so I guess we must have been having fun because the year just flew by. But now, since we worked hard throughout the year (always a sign of a good school year), it's time to play hard...or maybe just have a wonderful, restful, and fun summer. We are looking forward to seeing you in the fall.
